

CHILDREN

Our Greatest Teachers

Nathan Star explores the greatest gifts our children present to us and how we can use these gifts to create a more loving and kinder world...

The Children in our lives represent our greatest teachers, and we are honoured with their presence. If we are lucky enough to be a parent, then we are privileged to have been chosen as their guide through their physical life. Whether you are a parent or not, the children that come into your lives will bring many blessings and remind you about the joys and the wonders of life.

Children are younger and have an energy that vibrates higher and faster, and have less of a need to apply logic to everything. It is safe to say that they generally have a closer connection to their extra sensory perception: clairaudience, claircognizance, clairsentience and clairvoyance. Their purity and innocence enables them to experience life through a connection to Spirit.

Children embody an innocence that reflects a deep connection to Spirit, the Source of life. They have not had the conditioning of a physical life and the physical world to tell them what is real or not, based on facts and logical-minded proof, and they have no need to judge themselves or others, hide their thoughts and emotions, or to feel the necessity to repress their needs. These are just some of the simple yet ever so profound lessons that children can teach us. There are many more, however the basics are enough to be reminded of how wonderful the children in our lives are.

Think about a young child of three years old. A child at this age reminds us to be present and to enjoy the people, places and things around us. They would delight in being surrounded by love and being loved, find wonder in whatever place they were in, and find a way to entertain themselves.

Children love to play. Playtime nourishes the soul, and reflects not just an aspect of us that is able to let go of our worries, concerns and doubts, however, play nourishes the soul, because it keeps us in the present. Play time is something that we do to enjoy ourselves, as the activities engage our creativity as well as bring happiness and joy into our present moments. Watching children play can be just as exciting as playing yourself, and perhaps you will want to get involved too. Playtime is inspiring, because it allows you to reconnect with your own inner child. Each and all of us were children once and just because we have aged and spent several years or decades on this planet,³ that does not mean we are any less of a child. We all came from the Universe as a soul, incarnated into a body, spent time as a baby, a child and then growing up was a part of life.

Growing up is an essential and a natural part of life, and it represents being in a continuous cycle of change and transformation. We are not suggesting anything to remain stuck in the past and refuse to move forward with the natural changes in life; however this is about acknowledging and celebrating the different stages of life.

Being in touch with the child within brings us closer to the wishes of our soul.

Children manifest things much faster than anyone realises. Think about the dreams and ambitions that you had as a child and think about the games and ways you used to send out those wishes without further attachment. Some of us may have held dandelions with a wish in mind and blew away the seeds, while others searched for four leaf clovers, and others placed wishing jars on the window sill. The ways that we connected with these things and the ways that children still are doing some of these things today, reflect a deeper sense of faith and trust in the Universe; a sense of having a wish, letting it go, and being open to the possibilities.

Children are usually raised in ways that reflect the upbringing of their parents. Certain values, beliefs and attitudes are passed on through the generations of families, and somewhere along the line, one generation of children will challenge and outgrow some of these. Children are individuals and they teach this very well. When a child challenges your own thinking as a parent or teacher arises, one thing to get in touch with is to look at what conditions had created the need for a certain belief in a past generation, to compare it to this day and age, and question its relevance. You can reach for a better feeling thought to create better situations and outcomes for all.

Children teach us that they have voices and they also need to be heard. They have their own needs and perhaps they may not always conform to what is expected of them. They teach us to keep an open mind, and to keep our options open. In regards to what may seem like as rebellious behavior as they experience more of life, look at it from their perspective. Without challenges to the thinking that is already in place, where will catalysts for growth and change come from? Children are wishing to know more about why things need to be done a certain way and how it is all made relevant to them.

Children teach us to be leaders and teachers, to take the time to explain things, to guide, inspire and mentor them. They remind us to be conscious of our own thinking and behavior, as we set examples for them. Children inspire us to take care of every part of ourselves, because if we are unable to care for ourselves, then how will we care for and teach our children in the very best way that we can?

There is no greater lesson, than learning from the happiness within our own inner child and the children that are in our world. The happier we are, the more peaceful we are. The more peaceful we are, the more the planet is healed.

PSYCHIC AWARENESS

For the love of Angels

By Susanne Hartas

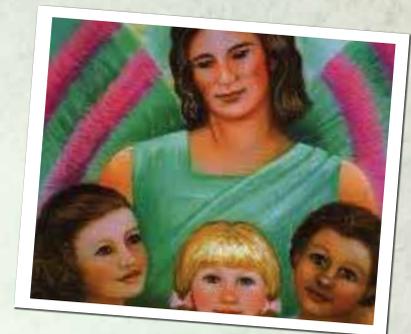

ARCHANGEL METATRON IS THE AMBASSADOR FOR CHILDREN AND IS DEDICATED TO GUIDING AND PROTECTING ALL CHILDREN AND THOSE WHOM CARE FOR THEM. CHILDREN VIBRATE NATURALLY WITH THE ENERGY OF PURE LOVE AND ARE HIGHLY INTUITIVE BEINGS. THEY CAN BE GREATLY AFFECTED AND INFLUENCED BY THE ENERGIES SURROUNDING THEM AND THIS IS WHY METATRON WORKS CLOSELY WITH THEIR PARENTS AND CARERS, IN FOSTERING POSITIVE AND LOVING GUIDANCE THAT WILL NURTURE THEIR YOUNG SPIRITS.

Some children are more sensitive than others and have difficulties, both physically and emotionally adjusting to the vibrations on Earth. Their health may suffer from toxins within our planet and being highly psychic and telepathic, they tend to absorb and react to the thoughts and emotions of those around them and any restrictions placed upon their freedom may be met with some resistance. Archangel Metatron aligns closely with these highly sensitive children, whom he refers to as 'brave young warriors' for they are 'The Children of Ascension' and the leaders of the new way.

Metatron's message -

"Your children are indeed wise souls within youthful bodies who have made the decision to incarnate upon your planet at this exact time and moment. While they have chosen to undertake a difficult mission, the choice was made with much love for all humankind so that the remembrance of your truth as spiritual beings may be realised sooner rather than later. The voice of the child must be heard, for their voices carry much wisdom and guidance toward ascension for all. I ask, fear not the movement forward, but grasp the hand of a child within your own, as they lead you into ascending times. With the fearlessness of the child within, accept with love and gratitude the blessings being bestowed upon you now. For the child knows the truth of their own divinity, as does the child within one self. Be but a warrior on your own behalf and realise your divine truth, for the child within will lead you home. Many blessings, Beloved Ones."
